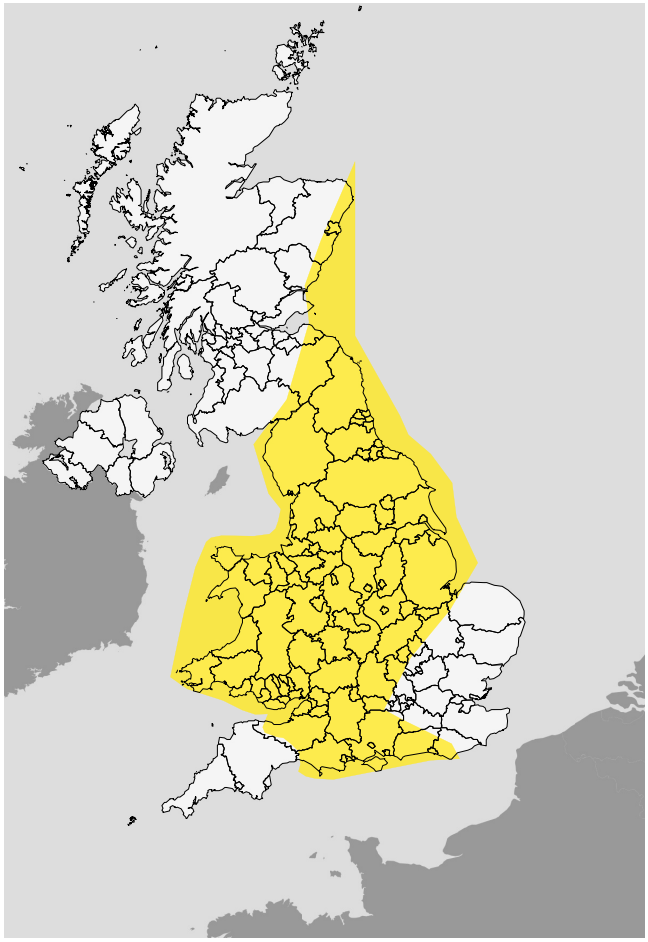
Yellow warning
Wind

Between
03:00 Thu 29 Nov 2018 and
17:00 Thu 29 Nov 2018



Windy and wet conditions will affect many areas today.

What to expect

- Some delays to road, rail, air and ferry transport are likely with some journeys taking longer. There is the chance of some cancellations as well as some road/bridge closures.
- Some short term loss of power and other services is possible
- It's likely that some coastal routes, sea fronts and coastal communities affected by spray and/or large waves with a small chance of injuries from large waves and beach material being thrown onto sea fronts, coastal roads and properties.

Further details

A weather system will move northeastwards across the UK on Thursday bringing widespread strong winds. Inland gusts of 55 mph are likely with gusts of around 65 mph in exposed locations, perhaps even more in some coastal areas in the northeast of the UK.

Winds will moderate by late morning across western England and Wales, by mid afternoon across northern England and southeast Scotland, and by late afternoon across northeast Scotland.

Heavy rain is also likely to affect southern and western England as well as Wales, and following on from recent wet weather this may lead to some very localised surface water flooding.

Reason for update

This update extends the warning area into northeast Scotland and further east across England, while also increasing inland gusts slightly. Strongest winds will soon ease across south west England, so the original warning area has been truncated there.
